CHINA ASSOCIATION ELOQUENCE.

TRADE COMPETITION IN FAR EAST.

INCREASED DEMAND FOR CHINESE PRODUCTS.

LONDON, October 10.

At the annual dinner of the Chinese Association, Mr. F. Anderson presiding recalled the Association's suggestion in last June that the terms of the Anglo-Japanese Treaty should be embodied in a declaration and subscribed to by the four powers forming the Consortium and that China might be invited to subscribe. He said that if such a declaration were signed there would be a feeling of relief throughout the civilised world. He declared that Japan would make a wise and far-seeing course if she intimated that she had decided to return Kiaochow and the whole of Shantung, including the railway, to China unconditionally upon payment of reasonable compensation. Given amicable relations with China, Japan from an economic viewpoint had the ball at her feet in the Far East. She was the only nation Europe and America had to fear there commercially, but if the British and Americans were beaten fair and square by Japanese trade rivals there would be no ill feeling.

Major Sir Philip Lloyd George, Parliamentary Secretary to the Board of Trade, said they wanted to see China buying and selling in every market of the world. He was glad to say that in spite of difficulties there had been a great demand for Chinese products not only in Europe but also in America. He hoped in the better times that were coming China and those trading with China would not forget that Britain had done to bring about that state of things (Cheers.)

ITALIAN REPRESENTATIVE AT ANGORA.

SEPARATE AGREEMENT NOT PLANNED.

LONDON, November 10.

In the House of Commons at question-time, Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Foreign Affairs said that an Italian representative was at present at Angora but the Italian Foreign Minister had categorically denied that Italy intended to conclude a separate agreement with Angora. He had assured the British Government that it would be informed of every thing occurring at Angora. The British Government had no information beyond the newspaper statement from Athens that Christians in Cilicia had been given twenty days' notice to leave the country. The Government on many occasions had reminded the French Government of their obligations towards the Christian minorities and had recently pointed out that the safeguards in the Franco-Kemalist agreement were inadequate. Reply from the French Government to these representations had up to the present not been received.

MILITARY SERVICE IN HOLLAND.

AGITATION LEADER SENTENCED.

THE HAGUE, November 10.

The Military deserter Groenendaal whose arrest was responsible for the demonstrations cabled on September 29 has been sentenced to nine months' military detention, less four months already served.

[A cable from the The Hague dated September 20 stated: On the occasion of the opening of Parliament demonstrations occurred with the object of securing the release of a man named Groenendaal, imprisoned for refusing military service. The police arrested several persons who were attempting to approach the royal carriage. Anti-militarist shouts were raised in the Parliament Hall, momentarily drowning the reading of the speech from the Throne. Order was eventually restored.]

ULSTER'S UNCOMPROMISING STAND.

NO SURRENDER OF RIGHTS.

LONDON, Nov. 10.

The Deliberations of the Ulster Cabinet were resumed at the Savoy Hotel this morning. At the close of the meeting a communiqué was issued stating: "The Prime Minister of Northern Ireland on behalf of the Cabinet wishes it clearly understood that there can be no surrender of Ulster's rights."

Prior to the meeting it was known that the British Government's proposals promised by Mr. Lloyd George had not reached Sir James Craig and it was in no wise definite whether the conference between the Government's representatives and the Ulster Cabinet Ministers would be held this evening as arranged.

DELAY EXPLAINED.

The Ulster Cabinet sat for two hours. A communiqué stated: "Sir James Craig received an apology from Mr. Lloyd George stating inability owing to the pressure of work to supply the detailed statement of the proposals promised yesterday but hoping to forward the document this afternoon and suggesting postponement of meeting till tomorrow."

ABSENCE FROM WASHINGTON.

PREMIER EXPRESSES KEEN DISAPPOINTMENT.

IRISH NEGOTIATIONS INTENSELY DELICATE.

WASHINGTON, November 10.

Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, has delivered to Mr. Hughes, Secretary of State, a message from Mr. Lloyd George expressing keenest disappointment at his inability to leave England in time to attend the opening of the conference. "Nothing but the intensely delicate state of the Irish negotiations and the absolute obligation I feel to Parliament and the country till these negotiations have been completed and the Government's unemployment legislation operating would have prevented me sailing last Saturday, but I sail at the earliest possible moment and hope to be present before the conference reaches a deciding stage in its momentous work. The heart of Great Britain is deeply set upon the success of the conference. The world needed the lead President Harding has given. It was the new world's opportunity." Mr. Hughes expressed to Sir Auckland Geddes the American Government's appreciation of the message.

LABOUR CONFERENCE'S WISHES.

GENEVA, November 10.

The International Labour Conference has telegraphed President Harding expressing very earnest wishes for the success of the Washington Conference, hoping the conference through international co-operation will achieve solid and lasting work for the firmer establishment of the peace of the world; and expressing conviction that the conference will materially advance the cause of humanity.

AMERICAN UNKNOWN WARRIOR.

SLEEPS BENEATH CAPITOL DOME.

WASHINGTON, November 10.

Covered with a flag, the coffin of the American unknown soldier was placed on a gun-carriage and escorted by military and naval forces, taken under weeping skies to the main rotunda of the Capitol and placed beneath the main dome where the murdered Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley rest. Mrs. Harding placed a ribbon on the coffin to which President Harding pinned the silver shield of the United States with forty-eight gold stars. He then laid a wreath of red roses on the coffin on which the Vice-President, Mr. Coolidge, and Mr. Gillette, Speaker of the House of Representatives, deposited a wreath of pink roses as tribute from Congress. Former President Taft, Mr. Donahy, General Pershing and other officials, also bestowed wreaths.

BRITAIN'S TRIBUTE.

WASHINGTON, November 10.

Mr. Arthur Ballou, head of the British delegation to the Washington Conference, and Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador, headed a procession of twenty automobiles filled with wreaths from the Embassy to the Capitol. The Earl of Cavanagh on behalf of the King, placed a wreath on the coffin of the unknown warrior.

WEISBADEN AGREEMENT REPORT.

FURTHER ANGLO-FRENCH ESTRANGEMENT.

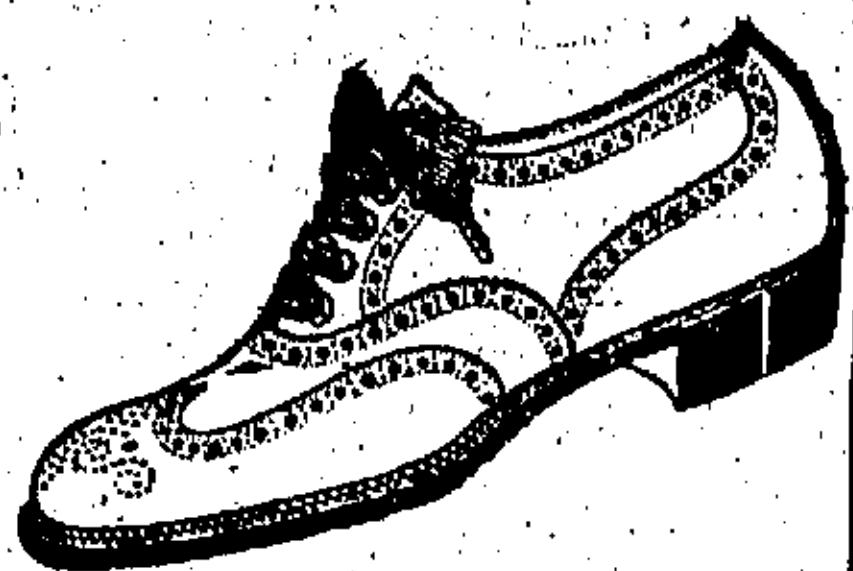

LONDON, October 10.

The report of Sir John Bradbury, (Principal British representative on the Reparations Commission) regarding the Weisbaden Agreement may be a fresh source of British and French estrangement. Paris messages state, that the newspapers generally regret its publication as inopportune at the very moment when the Reparations Commission is visiting Berlin. Some papers, notably the Figaro, are surprised that the British Government should yield by the absence of M. Briand to raise matters which France and Britain have disagreed, thus needlessly alarming public opinion.

[A previous message stated:—Sir John Bradbury principal British representative on the Reparations Commission, declares that the Weisbaden agreement cabled on October 7 involves a new burden for Germany in addition to the burden imposed by the Reparations Commission. Germany's acceptance of the agreement was remarkable in view of German assurances of difficulty in meeting present obligations. Sir John Bradbury affirms that the potential dimensions of the new burden are so great that they may prejudice Germany's fulfilment of obligations. Therefore the British, Belgian and Italian members of the Reparations Commission, advocate safeguards in order to ensure the Allies' recovery of the cost of the German indemnity. Sir John Bradbury expresses the opinion that with safeguards the Weisbaden agreement is likely to accelerate solutions of the reparations problem to France without prejudicing the other Allies.]

STORIES OF MAYFAIR.

WOMEN WHO PULL THE STRINGS.

Still under a veil of anonymity not too concealing, "A Woman of No Importance" has written "Recollections and Reflections," which is published (Evelyn Nash and Grayson, 12s. 6d.) Some of the "recollections" are rather startling, but the reflections are never unkind. "A Woman of No Importance" knows her world thoroughly, and sees its bright side.

In the prevailing fashion, politicians are not spared. Gladstone, we are told, had a "pretty taste in women."

I once accidentally surprised him kissing Mrs. Cornwallis-West, quite a harmless little affair but it impressed itself on my memory for she was pretty, soft, and round, while he looked like a hungry hawk, with fierce eyes and leak, pecking at her.

Mr. Balfour is dismissed with the remark that he has "disappointed many," and that "I gather that the public trust Mr. Balfour more or less, and many believe that when he is frying fish it is for the country's consumption. They do not trust Mr. Lloyd George when he is trying fish, and do not respect him." Mr. Asquith is ticked as "another of our lawyer politicians, and lawyer's tricks do not make statesmen." After Mr. Churchill's departure from a big house in which he had been staying his hostess said:

He spent his time painting a picture of the place. He has gone now. I am so glad he did not leave the picture behind.

Kitchen as a dancer is now: After a turn or two, I suggested sitting down for a rest, and having a chat. He agreed, being in a profuse perspiration, but said, with a beaming smile and stiff little bow, "That was fine. I felt sure I could dance with you."

I think I must surely be the only woman on the face of the earth whom he ever danced, or thought he had danced, a waltz.

Sometime the other day, asked "A Woman of No Importance," who among the women at the present time has the "most influence in political circles, who pulls the strings?"

Lady Curzon is a clever woman, has some experience in the management of men, and enjoys the confidence of many. It will be interesting to note which string she pulls. Lady Balfour is another woman whom I expect to see coming to the front in political influence.

Lady Julia Duff, who in 1905 married Mr. Vivian, of the 2nd Life Guards, is very much in the know, and always has been.

EXILE OF WIERINGEN.

CROWN PRINCE PINING FOR GERMANY.

An interview with the former German Crown Prince to the New York World correspondent is published in New York in which the exile of Wieringen says that poverty alone keeps him in isolation on the Dutch island. The despatch cabled from Amsterdam describes the exile as pining to return to Germany, but he has held the peace, although sometimes he thought he would explode. "It is because of pecuniary reasons," he is quoted as saying, that he stays at Wieringen, though he would prefer to live on the Continent. "For the same reasons my wife and I visit me only once a year, although we correspond regularly. My eldest son has written me saying I ought to come home and manage the house. But I intend to stay in Holland until I am sure that my return will not disturb anybody in Germany."

The interviewer says that the former Crown Prince has not lost his gaiety, and cordially offered the correspondent a glass of excellent port wine. Asked when there would be another Kaiser in Germany, the exile answered that he did not know, "but it might happen to-morrow. One might talk all night about when Germany would be ruled again by a Kaiser without getting anywhere." The ex-Crown Prince is reported as expressing his regret for the murder of Erzberger.

Nothing was gained, he said, by the assassination of political enemies, and no party in Germany will gain its ends by such means. The correspondent adds that the former Crown Prince is living in a fair degree of comfort, having managed to secure the transport of a "few sticks from his old home."

Lady Pembroke is another who knows most things in connection with everyday affairs. No one has been able to take the place of the late Theresa Lady Londonderry.

Not very long ago somebody said to me, "We have seen the last King of England, and at that moment it seemed quite possible, but England has been more or less saved by the Prince of Wales." It is not yet fully realized what he has done for the country, how much he has appealed to, with his youthfulness, sporting instincts, and homely, natural speeches.

It is a book written by a happy soul who is anxious to make others happy and to share the fun and jollity of human life with those who have not been so fortunate.

WHISKY FARCE.

POLICE SELL SAME LIQUOR SCORES OF TIMES.

The American anti-prohibitionists are rocking with laughter over the latest disclosures by the Federal authorities in what is popularly designated the "screaming police farce" in Chicago.

From evidence presented to the Grand Jury, it seems that the use of prison vans guarded by men in uniform for "safe" delivery of consignments of whisky to favoured publicans was merely the final stage of a complicated process by which the police sold, seized, and resold, the same whisky times without number. This process is technically described as the "multiple shakedown."

It began, according to accounts published to-day, by the systematic collection of information by the police of shipments of whisky to Chicago from other towns. When these shipments reached the goods yards, uniformed policemen would confiscate the whisky in accordance with the prohibition laws. After confiscation the police agents in the character of private bootleggers (liquor-carriers) would sell it at cheap rates in cases.

After delivery a policeman in uniform would confiscate it, and it would then be resold and reconfiscated sometimes half a dozen times before being consigned in the prison van to the richer public-house keepers for sale at high prices to customers over the bar.

GAVE HER BABY RELIEF AT ONCE

What Another Mother Says About Baby's Own Tablets.

"Mothers everywhere are finding Baby's Own Tablets, the Canadian children's remedy, immensely valuable for their little ones. Here is what an American mother says:—

"My baby was much troubled with colic," writes Mrs. B. Williams, of Perth Amboy, N. Y., "and nothing seemed to do any good until I tried Baby's Own Tablets. They gave relief at once and I would not be without them. I have taken a great pleasure in recommending the Tablets to my friends."

Baby's Own Tablets contain no opiates or any toxic and are guaranteed an absolutely harmless remedy for infantile indigestion, simple fever, colic, constipation and diarrhoea. They expel worms, kill the cause of teething, promote healthy sleep and regular development.

This is a day of remembrance. What do we desire to preserve from our ordinary human forgetfulness, on this Armistice Day? Some want to remember old hatreds, and refresh them. Many use the day as the appropriate occasion for paying respect to the memory of the brave men who died—and that is worthy and decent. Strictly speaking, one would expect that Armistice Day should celebrate the armistice, the truce, the cessation of war. Each anniversary of November Eleventh, 1918 should refresh, so far as possible, the emotions of that date. What were they? It would seem that many have already forgotten. They were emotions of relief, for an incubus had lifted, a long nightmare was over. Din had stopped, and quiet came. Weary, very weary folk could rest, and did. To the actual peace, the armistice brought to human minds that day, the official peace subsequently arranged and

PARLIAMENT PROROGUED.

KING SURVEYS OUTSTANDING PROBLEMS.

WASHINGTON CONFERENCE HOPES.

LONDON, November 10.

The King's speech at the prorogation of Parliament outlines the good progress made towards solution of the very critical problems at home and in foreign affairs. It was happy to know that the Dominions, Indian and British representatives were in close accord on all the issues of foreign policy discussed. It was unanimously decided that the naval strength of the Empire should equal any other power.

The steps which had been taken by the President of the United States to promote reduction of expenditure in armaments command the fullest sympathy of the Government. The King earnestly hopes that the labours of the conference will be crowned with success.

In spite of the unexampled depression in trade, he anticipates the current budget will be without a deficit although the estimated surplus for reduction of debt will not be realised. He appeals to all parties in Ireland to display goodwill in order to end the present anxiety and achieve enduring peace.

As regards unemployment which was aggravated by the coal strike, the King looks more to co-operation between employers and operatives than to acts of parliament for restoration of trade prosperity.

Parliament has been prorogued until January 30.

KWANGTUNG OPIUM MONOPOLY.

JAPANESE GOVERNMENT'S DECISION.

LONDON, November 10.

In the House of Commons, Mr. P. W. Rafter asked whether inquiries would be made into the question of the opium monopoly in Kwangtung and if the allegations were confirmed, whether representations would be made to Japan. Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, Under Secretary for Chinese Affairs replied that Nakano's evidence showed that the profits of the opium office were paid to the Kwangtung government as the result of protests by the Chinese Government. It was decided to confine opium sales to within strict limits. There seemed to exist no ground for British representations to Japan. Japan had intimated a definite decision to abolish entirely the Government opium monopoly in Kwangtung territory.

K'IS R A PACIFIST

SIDELIGHTS ON THE GREAT WAR.

The notorious Colonel Bauer, of the Kapp "Putsch" fame, has produced a book entitled "The Great War in the Field and at Home," in which he gives interesting impressions of the Kaiser and other leading personages. After the Battle of the Marne, he says, panic seized the entire army, but it was worst at the Great Headquarters. Moltke was in a state of collapse. He was not a born leader, suffered from indecision, and was ailing even at the beginning of the war, and thus the fact that he held the most important army post was disastrous. Hindenburg relied entirely for strategy and tactics on Ludendorff, who let the popular hero have all the credit, taking any blame himself. Bauer, who declares that the Kaiser was really a pacifist, says that his ill-health often crippled his will power. He avoided difficult questions and decisions, and brooked no opposition for which reason he would have no strong independent personalities around him. He had obviously no premonition of the approaching revolution, for he received only rose-coloured reports, and would not listen to those who wished to warn him.

Bauer says that he more than once implored the Kaiser to warn the Kaiser of the coming revolution, but she refused his objection to unpleasant news being so great that his own wife dared not tell him that his throne was in danger. The chiefs of personal Cabinet had a bad influence on him, for they put forward weak men for important positions, and Mueller, who did so much to injure the navy, was dubbed "Rasputin" by the junior naval officers. The Crown Prince, according to the writer, was the only man who saw what was coming, and realised that the war was lost. He is described as straight, open, and honourable, a good judge of character, with great respect for knowledge and ability, but more a statesman than a soldier. It is admitted that his relations with women left much to be desired, but his "affairs" were exaggerated. In July, 1918, he handed his father a belated memorandum, in which he urged the conclusion of peace by agreement, adding that social reforms were essential to readjust the unequal burdens of the war on the population, whose patience was almost exhausted. Coming as they do from the monarchist side, these revelations are significant.

FELLOWSHIP SPIRIT.

SHANGHAI ALSO FORMS A LEAGUE.

Outcome of Dr. Hodgkin's lectures in Shanghai, "a fellowship" to further the application of the fundamental principles of human brotherhood to social, industrial, commercial and educational life in Shanghai at a meeting at the Carlton Cafe over which Mr. P. Peables presided. Mr. W. Hawkins and Miss Johnson, of the Y.W.C.A., were elected to a joint secretaryship.

No definite announcement of the actual work to be attempted was made, but in the discussion, generalisations of lines on which to work were made and a letter, written by a Shanghai lady to Mr. J. Trevor Smith, who acted as secretary temporarily, was read, making some interesting suggestions, of questions to be tackled. They ran:

1. Unemployment among foreigners in Shanghai, together with the question of providing for the Russian refugees who have made Shanghai their temporary home.
2. Examination of the whole aspect of child labour in factories.
3. Censorship of films shown at local theatre matinees which are attended largely by children.
4. Provision for the entertainment of foreign sailors, when they come ashore. British and American sailors, who pointed out, are already well looked after but there is no place for other foreign sailors, except bars and cinemas.
5. Examination, and perhaps revision, of history textbooks in schools so that the rising generation may be taught their duty as citizens of a brotherhood of nations. Only in this way, the writer added, can war and Bolshevism be averted.
6. The league or society should be, in every sense, international or, as she pointed out, they would be cramped.

"Nearly 200 cats have been taken off the streets and put in various pet-homes during the last four days," said an official of the Cats' Protection Society to a reporter. "It is estimated that during August, while people are away for a holiday, nearly 10,000 cats are left at home to starve or die of thirst."

PIRATES AT GINDRINKERS.

HAVE GUNS.

The mistress of a cargo junk reports that about 4.30 p.m., yesterday, while the vessel was on a voyage from Chiwan to Hongkong, she was attacked near Gin Drinkers Bay by a sampan containing 10 armed men. They all boarded the junk, four armed with revolvers and the others with daggers and demanded money. The woman's husband struggled with one of the pirates who fired two shots wounding him on the head and foot. The wounded man and his crew were then driven into the fore hold where two men kept guard over them while the others relieved the women folk of all their jewellery to the value of $440. The pirates towed away in their own boat in the direction of Capesumun.

FIFTY YEARS IN PRISON.

HARD LABOUR FOR MAN CONVICTED IN 1863.

"This man is one of the old lot," said the Recorder at the Old Bailey, when Geo. Lawrence, aged 77, a labourer, came before him on a charge of stealing two overcoats from a City office.

A police officer said that the accused was first sentenced at the Old Bailey in 1863, when he received five years' penal servitude.

The police officer added that Lawrence had been convicted twenty-eight times, and his sentences totalled fifty years.

The Recorder said he was afraid that no sentence would do the prisoner any good or any harm. No doubt his sentences when he was a young man were very heavy, and would not be passed at the present time. He sentenced the accused to twelve months' hard labour.

NIGHT ROBBER SURPRISED.

CREAKING ROPE GIVES WARNING.

A robbery was attempted at No. 7, Glenale last night. The master of the house heard the creaking of rope on the verandah and switched on the electric light. The thief who was climbing up a rope to the first floor verandah escaped, leaving the rope behind, fastened to a spoke of the "burglar's guard." A sewing machine on the verandah seems to have been the burglar's objective.

FELLOWSHIP LEAGUE.

WASHINGTON CABLE
APPROVED.INTERNATIONAL CLUB
MOOTED.HOW HONGKONG CAN SERVE WORLD FRIENDSHIP.

A local branch of the League of Nations Union and an international club open to the members of all nations irrespective of race or creed were suggested by the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, K.C., father of the new League of Fellowship and Service at a public meeting held in the Theatre Royal yesterday evening to pass a resolution approving a cable for despatch to the Washington Conference "expressing our earnest hope for a just and permanent settlement of the problems of the Far East and Pacific Ocean."

On the stage already set as a dining room for the Warwick Company's evening performance was Sir Edward Stubbs, K.C.M.G., presiding not as Governor of the Colony but as patron of the League of Fellowship, supported by the Hon. Mr. H. E. Pollock, and the Hon. Mr. Lau Chu-pak, senior Chinese unofficial member of the Legislative Council. In the body of the theatre was a large audience representative of many local communities—Chinese, British, Portuguese, French, Indian and others. The dress circle was partially filled. Among those present were representatives from the different consulates in the Colony.

Opening the meeting His Excellency said it had been thought by the League of Fellowship and Service that it would be an appropriate way of inaugurating its activities in the Colony if it sent a message of goodwill to the Conference which was about to sit in Washington to consider the affairs of the Pacific, in which, he need hardly say, we in Hongkong took a very great interest. His Excellency having explained that he was taking the chair that evening not as Governor of the Colony but as Patron of the League of Fellowship and Service, asked Mr. Pollock to move the resolution which had already appeared in the public press.

LEAGUE PROVING A SUCCESS.
The Hon. Mr. Pollock K.C. began his address by thanking the Governor for taking the chair, remarking that he was paying the League a very great compliment indeed because it was a tribute to the useful work which, at all events in His Excellency's estimation, the League would perform in the future. (Applause.)

Mr. Pollock then moved that the following message be despatched:
"To President Harding, Washington."

Public meeting of Hongkong residents sends greeting to Conference and expresses earnest hope for just and permanent settlement of problems of the Far East and Pacific.

As those present had doubtless seen from the newspapers, Mr. Pollock said, the League of Fellowship and Service was already proving a success. It was launched little more than a week ago and they had now about 250 members; and members were coming in from day to day. It was an interesting fact that their list of membership included persons of every nationality. (Applause.) That was what they hoped for. Everybody was entitled to join the League and they were hopeful that in a very short time they would have a much larger membership than at present.

They were met that evening to carry out the first object of the League—what he would call its international object—which ran as follows: "To promote good fellowship and peace between all nations." He thought everybody was agreed that that was a most important object and that so far as lay in their power it was the duty of every one of them to promote that object. With regard to the sending of the telegram to Washington that, of course, represented only a beginning of their work from an international point of view.

LOCAL LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

He hoped very shortly that it might be possible to establish in the Colony an International Club open to the members of all nations, irrespective of race and creed. (Applause.) Of course they had various shades of opinion in the Colony and it was interesting to him to find that in the last day or two some gentlemen seemed to be of the opinion that the Washington Conference was a matter which did not in the least bit concern them as individuals but that it was something which concerned simply and solely the statesmen who were delegates to the Conference. He felt sure that those present that evening did not share that view, but in order to convince others who appeared to want convincing he desired to read to them an extract from a speech made by the Chairman (His Excellency the Governor) when he took the chair at Dr. Hodgkin's lecture on the "Salvaging of Civilisation." On that occasion the Chairman said: "If the League of Nations was to be the success that everybody desired it must have the driving power of the peoples of the countries behind it. In order that it might become a living thing it was necessary that everyone should set aside the hard feelings of the past and cultivate a spirit of unity and sympathy with other nations. If that spirit could be extended he would not despair of seeing the League of Nations doing a great work towards the saving of civilisation." (Applause.) So far as he was aware there was no actual branch of the League of Nations in existence, but he wanted to submit for their consideration that the League of Fellowship and Service established in Hongkong, with its wide membership open to everybody, might not unwittingly take the place of a Hongkong branch of the League of Nations. In the connection he wished to point out that the third of the proposed rules of the League, which would be submitted shortly for confirmation to the general body of members, ran as follows: "All persons, irrespective of race or creed, who request that their names be put down as members of the League shall be members of the League." There was no ballot, no restriction of any kind and no exclusion of any man or woman who desired to be enrolled.

"GOODWILL TOWARDS MEN."

Again referring to the Chairman's remarks at Dr. Hodgkin's lecture, Mr. Pollock laid special emphasis upon the words, "It is necessary that everyone should put aside the hard feelings of the past and cultivate a spirit of unity and sympathy with other nations." He drew particular attention to the word "everyone" and expressed the hope that not only those present that afternoon but also a considerable number who were not there would roll up and join the League for the purpose of showing that Hongkong was in earnest in its desire to promote international goodwill. (Applause.)

"How do we stand and where does our duty lie?" Mr. Pollock asked. "Surely, it is our duty to support a movement of this sort. Surely, we as Christians shall not forget the first Christian message which was ever sent, the message of 'Peace upon earth, goodwill towards men.' Surely, too, we shall remember those gallant men who died for us in the war, many of whom passed away into the other world with the vision before them that by their deaths they were going to ensure that this world should be a better place to live in in the future. Are we going to be false to the trust which that band of deathless heroes has laid upon us? In the message which we are about to send to the Washington Conference we express the earnest hope for a just and permanent settlement of the problems of the Far East and the Pacific. What do we mean when we use those words—just and permanent settlement? It seems to me that we mean two things at least—that in that settlement justice must be done to all, without any prejudice and irrespective of race and creed, and secondly, that we must seek to arrive at a mutual friendly understanding in a generous spirit and not in an envious and self-seeking spirit. Those two principles seem to me to be principles which underlie the message which we are sending to Washington."

A TREMENDOUS EVENT.

Personally I look upon this Conference which is about to take place as one of the most important events which have taken place during my 33 years of residence in this Colony. It is fraught with enormous possibilities either for evil or for good. If the statesmen at Washington cannot rise to the level of the great opportunity which has been given to them by President Harding, then it seems to me that there are grave fears that we may hereafter, and at no very distant date, be confronted with yet another war which, with the further discoveries of modern science, will be even more terrible than the last war. Many of you will have read in Mr. H. G. Wells' book on the "Salvaging of Civilisation" the terrible picture which he draws of the future of civilisation unless the nations turn themselves seriously and in earnest towards the path of peace. That is one side of the picture. If, however, as we earnestly hope and pray may be the case, better and more reasonable counsels prevail at Washington, then we may regard the Conference as a turning point in the future of the human race and as a stepping stone towards that splendid conception, the creation of a world state.

"When the nations are united, when the flag shall be unfurled, Of the Parliament of Man, the Federation of the World."

HON. MR. LAU CHU-PAK.

Hon. Mr. Lau Chu-Pak said: Your Excellency, Ladies and Gentlemen.—The eloquent speech of my honourable friend Mr. Pollock must have made as strong and profound an appeal to you as it has to me. No one can be in disagreement with his noble sentiments, and I, for one, endorse them most heartily and with fervency. The world has got to such a state that, unless all the nations bend their highest efforts to stay its mad career, civilisation will inevitably become extinct. I do not propose to dilate upon the recent upheavals, both political and economic, which have entailed so wide and so grievous a distress and suffering upon the world. Suffice it to say that the present ills of mankind have been caused more by the work of mankind itself than by natural visitations. It is my devout wish, as it must be the devout wish of everyone present, that those who take part in the Pacific Conference may be given wisdom to achieve a just and permanent peace—a peace that will create for us a new world in which the ideals preached by Jesus Christ and Confucius will be practised; in which the spirit of domination and the instinct for self-aggrandisement and envy will be dispelled by mutual help, mutual love, and a universal desire to up-lift humanity to a higher plane. Ladies and Gentlemen, with these words I beg to second the resolutions. (Applause.)

LOCAL WEDDING.

JACK—WILLIAMSON.

Yesterday at 11.30 a.m. the wedding took place at the Rosary Church, Kowloon, of Mr. James Mackenzie Jack, son of the late Mr. W. C. Jack and Mrs. Jack, and Miss May Sybil Williamson, daughter of the late Mr. F. J. Williamson, of the department of the Director of Public Prosecutions, Whitehall, London, and Mrs. Williamson. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Spada. The bride wore a costume of ivory white satin Française, draped with embroidered net and with orange blossom trimming. She also wore a veil of tulle d'illusion and a wreath of orange blossom. She carried a shower bouquet of white caryanthemums and roses. Miss Jessie Jack, sister of the bridegroom, attended the bride as bridesmaid, being dressed in periwinkle blue nixon over tulle with a black tulle hat. Her bouquet was of pink roses and maidenhair fern. The duties of best man were carried out by Mr. J. B. Spairs of Taikoo Dock.

The bride was given away by Capt. Robert Innes, Marine Superintendent of Messrs. Butterfield and Swire, while the bridegroom's mother was Matron of Honour. The latter's costume was of grey beaded georgette, complete with violet toque and accompanied with bouquet of violets and fern.

After the ceremony a reception was held at Canton Villas, Kowloon, which was decorated with chrysanthemums and palms, where the couple received from their many friends the heartiest good wishes. The honeymoon is being spent at Fanling, the bride departing thence in a going away dress of navy shadow lace over ivory charmeuse, set off with a black picture hat trimmed with bird of paradise feathers.

Messrs. Thos. Cook and Son announce that although they are closing down their Manila Office on November 30, the travelling public will be interested to know that they will still continue to advertise the Philippine Islands with a view to popularising tourist travel there.

instinct for self-aggrandisement and envy will be dispelled by mutual help, mutual love, and a universal desire to up-lift humanity to a higher plane. Ladies and Gentlemen, with these words I beg to second the resolutions. (Applause.)

RESOLUTION CARRIED.

No one responded to the Chairman's general invitation to the audience to address the meeting and so the resolution was put to the vote and carried unanimously amid loud applause.

Acknowledging a vote of thanks to himself which had been proposed by Mr. Pollock, His Excellency said: It is a pleasure to me to come and preside at so well attended a meeting. I did not intend to say anything, but Mr. Pollock's reference to certain comments in the newspapers will lead me to say one thing. The question has been raised, what is the actual use of a small place like Hongkong of sending telegrams of this kind. I think the answer to that is that what we want to do, what everybody wants to do, if the League of Nations is to be a success, is to produce an atmosphere of goodwill and international fellowship. (Applause.) The importance of our message lies in the fact that we here feel that each of us is a focus of that international goodwill and we assist in creating an atmosphere which we hope may become more general. Each of you is able to influence his own surroundings and Hongkong as a whole is able to influence China and other parts of the world to which the citizens of Hongkong belong. It is therefore with the idea that by this meeting we assist in creating a general atmosphere that I think the League of Fellowship and Service is going to do good work and that is why I have come here to take the chair this evening at the request of Mr. Pollock. (Applause.) The meeting then terminated.
